Biography for: Nataalka Husar

NATALKA HUSAR

Nataalka Husar was born in 1951 in New Jersey to Ukrainian immigrant parents. She graduated from Rutgers University in 1973 and that same year moved to Toronto where she lives and works. Since 1990 she has been an Associate Professor at OCAD University.

Husar has exhibited extensively across Canada, is represented in numerous public collections including the National Gallery and has received support from the Canada Council, Ontario Arts Council, Toronto Arts Council, and SSHRC. Her themes in painting since the 1980s have been of identities in displacement, haunted by an obliterated homeland and the fates of those left behind.

Her last body of work, a painted history play in 3 acts titled Burden of Innocence, circulated on a 5 venue museum tour 2009-2011. Organized by the Macdonald Stewart Art Centre in Guelph, in collaboration with McMaster Museum of Art in Hamilton, the Tom Thomson Art Gallery in Owen Sound and the Mackenzie Art Gallery in Regina, the exhibition was accompanied by two hard-cover publications an artists book and the Husar Handbook.

Douglas Udell Gallery exhibited acts 2 and 3 of this exhibition-- under the title Trial and Banquet-- in both Edmonton and Vancouver following the museum tour.

In her own words, she works like a playwright.

I invent psychologically specific characters including alter-egos for myself which I place into time-warped scenarios to address contemporary history. Over the last 20 years I have been using the concept of post-Soviet Ukraine as a metaphorical stage on which my cast of characters attempt to re-invent themselves while reenacting the gamut of social desire. Currently my stage has changed locale to the mid-sixties New Jersey of my upbringing and with the new location a new cast of characters. Im not certain what will happen next or how the plot will unravel.
Stay tuned.
